Waialua people are dead against the Wilcox leper bill. Deputy Sheriff Andrew Cox, who knows better than anyone the feelings of the residents of that district, says that the Waialua people are a unit against the bill.

P. N. Liffenthal says that plantations in the islands should have their own refineries; further, that there is no need for any fear regarding the main industry here. He believes that sugar has gone as low as it can possibly get.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Officers' Club, held yesterday morning, it was decided to hold a parade of the National Guard in Honolulu on Washington's birthday, February 22. The drill for prizes, to be held soon, was also discussed. The few remaining minor details were arranged.

L. G. Blackman is still in need of a few names of players for his Junior Association Football League, and will be glad to hear from any one wishing to play in the league games. Mr. Blackman will be present at the football practice at Makiki at 5 o'clock this afternoon, for the purpose of taking the names of intending candidates for the teams.

An old drunken native attempted to mount the band stand on the Capitol grounds Sunday while Captain Berger's band was playing. He was ordered off but refused to go. Assistant Hack Inspector Ferreira was called to the stand but when he approached the fellow received a slap in the face. This made the officer angry and he threw the native on the ground, pinning him down with his knee. Lieut. Leslie and other officers arrived and the native was taken to the police station.

SERENADED AT WAIKIKI

Waikiki has recently had something in the way of a mild sensation. Four young men and one young lady, all of whom are well known in society, decided to celebrate the Chinese New Year so, with an ukulele and a guitar, they sallied forth to serenade their friends in the neighborhood. They went to various houses at a late hour of the night. The three musicians brought forth harmonious Hawaiian airs while the two remaining members of the quartet gathered in the hush with which the generous population of Waikiki rewarded their musical efforts. Various and exceedingly humorous were the adventures which were met at the different houses, so say the serenaders. A terrible epidemic of dangerous illness must have been raging in the palmy suburb if truth was spoken by the people of the various houses at which a careful paterfamilias would carefully peep through the blinds and bid the serenaders to "go way back and sit down" as "there was somebody sick inside."

At other houses, the advent of the serenaders would be greeted by a sudden extinguishing of all lights and an awful stillness inside.

At one place where a young couple, well known to the serenaders, reside the following dialogue, which followed upon the sound of the first strains of music, was heard: "Oh, John, give them a quarter so they will go away." John: "Oh, never mind. I haven't any change." "John if you don't go I will." Sounds issued from the interior proclaiming that John had evidently thought better of it and was coming. The serenaders were by this time so convulsed with laughter that John discovered their identity and the musicians missed a quarter.

The serenading came to an abrupt end, however. It was decided that a certain crusty old gentleman who resides in the park ought to be entertained and accordingly the musicians went to his place and began a very plaintive Hawaiian air. The old gentleman evidently had no music in his soul for he suddenly appeared upon the scene with a revolver and fired two shots, which sent the serenaders scampering through the lawns.

The proceeds of the serenading trip, which consist of numerous nickels, some dimes and a few quarters and one half-dollar, will go to swell the fund for burglars who get injured in Waikiki.

MASS MEETING WORK

There were between three and four hundred people present at the mass meeting of the Republicans in the drill shed Saturday night. J. L. Kaulukou presided. The speakers were Senator W. C. Achi, Representative Wm. Aylett and Wm. Olepau, one of the native longshoremen.

The band played in front of the drill shed until close upon the hour set for the opening of the meeting. Captain Berger and his men then went into the hall and took their places on the platform.

Senator Achi, the first speaker, referred to the detriment to Hawaiian interests which the leper bill of Delegate Wilcox would bring about. Representative Aylett said that Hawaii did not wish to have her name changed from "The Paradise of the Pacific" to the "Dumping Ground for Lepers" and Mr. Olepau put forth some strong arguments against the bill. All three touched on the disfranchisement matter.

Resolutions of protest against the leper bill and the work looking toward the disfranchisement of the native Hawaiians were unanimously adopted.

WILSON'S GLEE CLUB.

John H. Wilson and his Hawaiian glee club were playing at the Creighton Orphan in Omaha the latter part of January. A letter from W. W. Umsted, of the Western Union telegraph office, says Wilson "has nine men with him and their music is being enjoyed at the Creighton. They will be in Honolulu in the course of five or six weeks unless some new engagement should be made." Mr. Umsted treated Mr. Wilson to the second sleigh ride he had ever had, with the temperature away below zero.

Waco, Tex., Feb. 1.—In the mid-winter about of the Waco Gun Club, now in progress in this city, Kollo O. Ralikes of Toledo, Ohio, broke the world's record Friday afternoon for clay pigeon shooting. Shooting from the 10-yard mark he broke 10 out of 100 and made a straight run of 89. He is already the champion.
